THIRTY-SEVENTH YEAR LIMA, OHIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1922 PRICE THREE CENTS

MURDER PUZZLE SOLVED

T. D. PRICE
Introducing Democratic Candidate for Supreme Court Bench

Judge T. D. Price, of New Lexington, Ohio, is a Democratic candidate for Judge of the Supreme court, on the non-partisan judicial ballot, in the November 7, election. At present he is Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, a position he has held since July 6, 1914. He was born of Welsh parents, at Pomeroy, Ohio, in 1872. He began life as a coal miner in the mines at New Straitsville, Ohio, and was at all times a member in good standing in the miners' organization, including the U. M. W. of A.

After graduating from high school, he completed his education at the Ohio State University in 1899 and in the same year was admitted to the practice of law in the state and federal courts. He took a special course in the Ohio State University, foreign counsels and ambassadorships history 54 O. S. U.; a course in the unwritten history of the United States commencing in 1751 and concluding at the close of the civil war, history 56, O. S. U.; a special course in government consisting of the study by comparison with the American government all the organized governments then existing in Europe down to the office of the rank of constable in the state of Ohio.

In private positions he weighed and shipped coal for a coal corporation with a capacity of 1,600 to 2,000 tons per day; check weighed coal for miners' organization; from 1892 to 1895 was general superintendent of coal mine in the Hocking Valley, employing 550 men; with a capacity of 1,200 to 1,500 tons per day.

In a public capacity he taught school two years after graduating from high school; was a member of the Constitutional convention in 1912, where the records and journals will disclose for him a favorable position as to labor. During the war he was a member of the legal advisory board for Perry-co. Judge Price began the practice of law in 1899 at Crooksville, Ohio, and was immediately employed by Devey Council 7117, Federation of Labor, as its legal counsel and advisor. He acted in that capacity and retained an honorary membership in the organization until 1914, when he was made judge of the common pleas court. He is a member of the Ohio Bar association.

Judge Price's decisions have at all times been fair and satisfactory to the labor interests. This is reflected in the fact that his candidacy for Judge of the Supreme court has the approval of the Ohio Federation of Labor, Brotherhood of Railway trainmen and the endorsement of Devey Council 7117, American Federation of Labor, Pottery Workers.

Judge Price is a member of the Welsh Congregational church and is affiliated with Philodorean Lodge No. 157 Free and Accepted Masons, Nelsonville, Ohio; New Straitsville Lodge No. 223 Knights of Pythias, New Lexington Lodge of Elks, Red Men of New Lexington.

"Judge Price is highly esteemed for his fine sense of humor," writes Judge John A. Shaukey, historian of the Fourth Constitutional convention of Ohio. "He also possesses a high sense of honor, devotion to duty and unflinching moral courage."

This tribute to the worth of Judge Price is paid by H. D. Cochran, perhaps the ablest member of the Perry-co bar.

"Judge Price is ambitious, has great fortitude and meets all the vicissitudes of life with courage. He is candid with everyone and has extraordinary impulses to benevolence. He is true to his friends. He has the faculty of pursuing any subject to the end. He has a correct estimate of his own abilities and is true to his convictions. He is a good reasoner and usually reaches correct conclusions. He is well read in law and has extraordinary ability."

Judge Stanley Matthews and Judge Price are the choice of the Democrats of Ohio on the non-partisan judicial ballot.

TEXAN IS ELECTED LEGION CHIEF

Alvin M. Owsley Chosen as Successor to MacNider

WINS BY LARGE MAJORITY

Plea Made for Ending of War for All Time

NEW ORLEANS — (Associated Press) — Alvin M. Owsley of Texas was elected national commander of the American Legion for the next year by the annual convention of the veterans here today, succeeding Harford MacNider of Iowa.

The balloting came at the close of the legion's fourth annual convention. The vote was overwhelming, being announced as follows:

Owsley 574, Deagan 251, Thompson 205, McCormick 12.

Delegate Rice W. Means of Colorado, presented the name of John A. McCormick, present national vice commander.

Connecticut yielded to Massachusetts whose past commander, Leo Hollow, nominated a New York man, William F. Deagan, commander of the New York department.

Ohio yielded to Pennsylvania who sent Eugene Hahn to the platform.

"For one of the most important jobs in the United States," he said, "I nominate 'Fighting Colonel' Joe Thompson of the twenty-eighth division, born without wealth, who worked his way thru college, leading the champion football team of Pittsburgh University, decorated with the congressional medal of honor, soldier and legionaire, who has sacrificed all for the Pennsylvania department and has put Pennsylvania first in the legion."

PLEA FOR PEACE

The representatives of the veterans of eight of the allied nations today made their plea to the American Legion to help them end war for all time.

Their spokesman was J. B. B. Cohen of Great Britain, former major, who lost both legs.

He laid before the legion the "eight points" upon which the wounded veterans of the inter-allied federation have agreed to pin their faith of ending war:

"1—That all international agreements among governments affecting the entire people shall be open and above board with full publicity.

"2—That treaties make the laws between the nations and must be executed in good faith.

"3—To oppose territorial aggrandizement.

"4—To vigorously suppress persons and propaganda seeking to overthrow by force government existing by will of the people.

"5—That we recommend the suspension of all trade relations with countries maintaining armies organized for aggressive purposes.

"6—In view of the distorted political reports tending to unbalance the public mind, we recommend that there shall be established a news dissemination bureau with representatives in every member country that shall collect and issue news designed to offset inflammatory propaganda.

"7—That an international court be established to outlaw war.

"8—To proceed rapidly as conditions permit and when the decrees of such court become operative (except for machinery necessary to maintain them and the minimum police forces) to entirely disarm and disarm our land, sea and air forces and destroy the implements of warfare."

BRITAIN MAY FACE GREAT UPHEAVAL

Expected to Result from Overthrow of Government

NEW PARTY IS CONSIDERED

Formation of Cabinet Begun by Bonar Law

LONDON — (United Press) — A. Bonar Law started to choose his ministry today as Lloyd George considered formation of a new center party which would combine all liberals under his leadership, his first step in what are believed plans of the retiring premier to declare open war on the new government.

Lloyd George will announce his future plans at a speech at Leeds tomorrow, it was believed.

Bonar Law, who accepted conditionally the invitation of King George to form a ministry, consulted leaders of the Unionist party, whose bolt for the coalition government yesterday caused the downfall of Lloyd George, who was at the helm of the government for six years.

The Canadian-born business man who may become the head of the next government, is to give a definite account of his policy. It is believed that he will declare that there will be a general election. Although this is taken as a foregone conclusion, it will not be known definitely until parliament meets Saturday or Sunday.

GENERAL ELECTION

Pending formation of a new government the coalition ministry remains in control. In case Bonar Law is successful in forming a government it is almost assured that there will be a general election. January or February were variously mentioned as the months in which the general election may be held but many were of the opinion that it would be called at a much sooner date.

Three factors will be taken into consideration in selecting the time for a general election.

These are:

1—The sooner the election is held the less opportunity Lloyd George will have to form a new center party which would include not only his followers in the liberal party but those of various shades of liberal opinion who are now identified with other parties.

2—In case the election is deferred the feeling of bitterness on the part of Austen Chamberlain and other Georgian members of the Unionist party may be overcome, leading them to give whole-hearted support to their party.

3—The Irish constitution must be ratified by the parliament December 6. Hence, if serious opposition to the ratification, discloses itself in the country, it is likely the new government of Bonar Law will keep the present parliament in power until after that date to assure ratification.

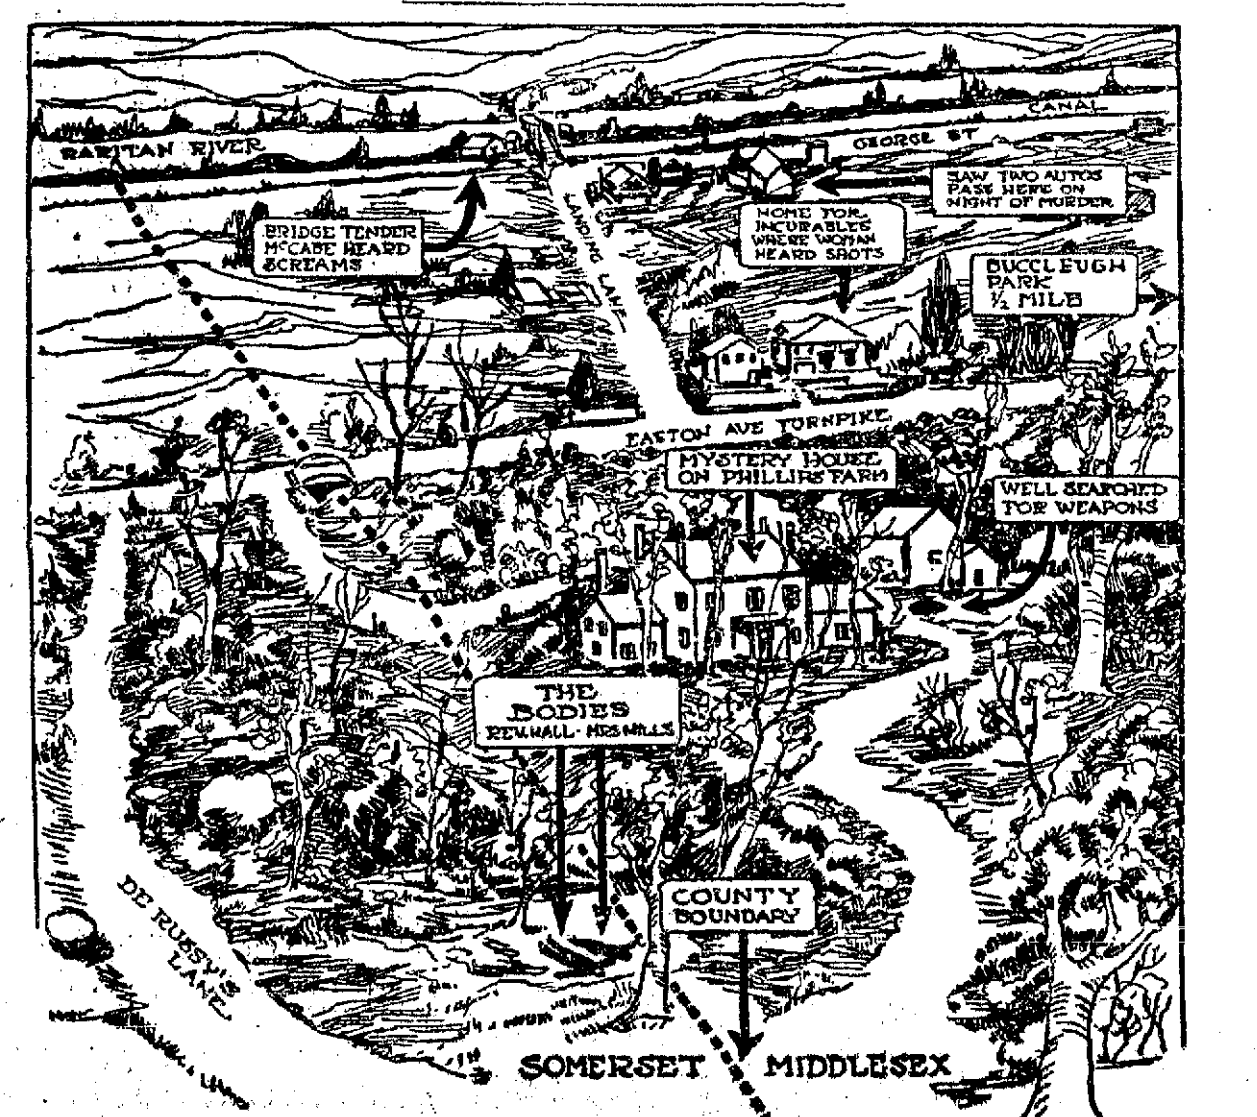

SPEECH AWAITED

The whole country today awaited the speech of Lloyd George which he is scheduled to make tomorrow at Guild Hall in Leeds. On this occasion he is to make known his plans.

Predictions as to his probable course are various. Some say they

HALL-MILLS MURDER SCENE

COUNTY LINE COMPLICATES MURDER CASE

Questions Raised as to Where Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills Were Slain

(BY EDWARD THIERRY)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (Special) — Where did the double murder of Rev. E. W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills take place? Which county—Middlesex or Somerset?

These questions will be uppermost in bringing to trial the murderers of the church rector and choir singer.

The bodies were found in Somerset, a few steps across the boundary line of Middlesex-co. The line runs from Raritan river south along a tiny brook that crosses Easton-av. on the outskirts of New Brunswick. It bisects the deserted Phillips farm near De Russys Lane, and where the brook disappears and the dry bed ends it is merely an imaginary line thru the thickets.

Were the victims shot down at the spot under the crabapple tree in Somerset-co. where their bodies were found?

If so, were the slayers standing in Middlesex? Were the shots fired across the county line? If so, legal complications may follow.

One supposition is that the victims may have been slain in or near the deserted house 10 yards away. Or in the barn. Or in neighboring Buccleugh Park. Were they then carried in automobiles and laid out under the crabapple tree?

INFORMATION FILED BY WELTY IN TRUBEY CASE

Sensational Charges in Matter Are Hinted at

New information, said to be of a highly sensational character, has been filed before the committee on grievances of the Allen-co Bar association which is investigating the actions of R. R. Trubey, assistant county prosecutor.

The information was filed by Ben F. Welty, former member of congress, and is in addition to the complaints on which Trubey was exonerated by a committee appointed by Judge Fred C. Becker.

Welty claims to have laid the new matters before the court committee but it would not go into them because they were not included in the original complaint.

The new information, according to Welty, was called to his attention by various citizens after he had instituted proceedings in behalf of H. G. Russell.

CHARGES NOT PUBLIC

For the present these matters are not made a matter of public record, but have been filed with Attorney George H. Quall, chairman of the committee on grievances.

Other members of the committee are James Weadock and Ira Longworth.

The committee, it is understood, will not only probe the original matters filed by Welty, but will look into such additional matters as may be presented.

All meetings are to be secret, in accordance with the constitution and by-laws of the organization. The committee has already afforded Trubey one hearing.

Testimony in the form of depositions will be taken in appeals court room Saturday, from witnesses who may be absent from the city later, Welty declared. The testimony will include portions of the new information.

FINDING GOES TO COURT

The finding of the grievance committee will be transmitted to the bar association as a whole, according to a member, and vote taken to decide what is to be done. If matters of a serious nature are disclosed the finding will be laid before common pleas court. A new court committee may then be appointed to investigate and make a report.

The report of W. H. Locke, H. O. Bentley, Minor Atmull, and D. C. Henderson, the court committee, which cleared Trubey, in connection with Welty's first charges, was not filed until Thursday afternoon.

A journal record formally dismissing the matter, and discharging the court committee, was entered soon after in the docket by Judge Fred C. Becker.

Included in the order was a bill for $53.10, stenographic fees to be paid to Walter M. Scott. The bill is the expense attendant to the probe. It will be paid from public funds.

SLAYER OF HALL, MILLS SPOTTED

Secret Arrest at New Brunswick is Reported

RECTOR, WIFE ESTRANGED

Discord in Minister's Home Just Brought to Light

(BY GERALD P. OVERTON)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (United Press). — The Hall-Mills murder mystery has been solved and the alleged slayers are virtually in a state of "secret arrest," under continual surveillance of detectives, it was reported here today.

Prosecutor Stricker, while not confirming this, admitted "decided progress had been made in the last week."

The very fact that there was less feverish activity among prosecutors, Beckman and Stricker, and the detectives and investigators that are aiding in the case, was also taken to bear out this belief.

QUARREL DISCLOSED

The whole atmosphere about the courthouse seemed to portend an actual arrest would be made very soon. The full in activity was taken to mean that the investigators had about closed in on the person to whom the latest clues point as the slayer of the minister and choir singer, who were found slain on the unoccupied Phillips farm nearly five weeks ago.

In spite of the protestations of Mrs. Hall, the wealthy widow of Rev. Hall, who was 13 years his senior, that she is confident that her husband was never unfaithful, it has been disclosed that the minister and his wife had quarrelled over his attentions to Mrs. Mills.

Miss Florence North, attorney for Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain woman, alleged that the minister and his wife were estranged a week or ten days before the Rev. Hall was murdered.

LIFE STORY OF COUPLE TRACED

(BY FLORENCE M. NORTH)
(Attorney for Charlotte Mills)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (United Press). — In my search for the slayer of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, I have turned to the simple story of their lives from the day they met until the hour of the tragedy.

Somewhere in that direction lies the secret of why they were slain. The clue that will lead to apprehension of the murderer, is to be found, I am convinced, in some hitherto unprinted pages of the romantic story which will let the reader follow me thru a detailed account of the terrible drama. The story, as I have learned it, has made clear to me the direction in which we must look for the murderer.

MET 12 YEARS AGO

Twelve years ago, at a time when she was expecting another child, Mrs. Mills first met Dr. Hall. She had gone to the State's home on "Richway" after an advertisement of Mrs. Hall's for some one to clean house. While she was on her knees, cleaning up, the pastor, who had just come to the little parish of St. John the Evangelist, and who had, a few months before, married the wealthy, artist, the Miss Stewarts, came into the room. He spoke to her kindly. From that moment, subsequent events lead us to believe she had eyes for no other man. She became moody and irritable. With the birth of her second child Don, this mood passed, but she was never quite the same.

Mrs. Mills became an ardent church-goer. She plunged into the work of the little parish with all her energy, of which, like many women of her small stature, she seemed to have a limitless supply.

She and Dr. Hall were gradually drawn together thru the years that followed.

MILLS "BEST FRIEND"

The pastor distinguished himself in two ways by good works among the poor of the parish and of the town and by his good fellowship. He and James Mills, Charlotte's father, used to have a game of pool together. Many a time, Mills had declared:

"Dr. Hall is my best friend."

Three years ago Mrs. Mills and the pastor became particularly friendly. She was constantly at the church, doing a hundred duties. In many ways she fulfilled the duties that sometimes fall to a clergyman's wife. Dr. Hall arranged that Mrs. Mills should take singing lessons under a famous master.

The pastor and the sexton's wife discovered a mutual love of nature. They started taking long walks in the fields together, usually after choir practice, or when the ladies could meet was over. They found they both loved poetry. They would compose it together. Mrs. Mills was particularly fond of flowers. A picture that hung in her kitchen was not true to nature, the wrong kind.

SEEKS HAPPINESS THRU SURRENDER OF FORTUNE

(BY JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT)
MIDDLEBORO, Mass. — (Special) — I have spent a night under the roof of Charles Garland, 23-year-old millionaire, who gave up fortune, wife and children in order that he might be himself.

His hermit retreat is a reconstructed hen house, divided thru the middle and equipped with a stove, a table, a cot, a desk, a lamp and a typewriter.

Here is the oddly assorted family which is seeking to wrest happiness out of Garland's ramshackle farm seven miles out from this picturesque little town:

Garland—tall, clad in a heavy woolen shirt, khaki trousers, woolen stockings and moccasins; a little shaggy mustache, betraying gleaming white teeth when he smiles.

Doris Benson—foster-sister of Garland, sturdily built, hair cut short, clad in knickers and a blue sweater.

Alice Edgerton—friend of Doris and of Garland, blond braid down her back, clad in knickers and green blouse, and using the soft "then" and "thou" of the Quakers.

As I stumbled across the darkness the lights from the reconstructed chicken house shone warm and yellow. A blond girl was sitting on the cot and hugging her knees contemplatively. A tall dark man was reading something out of a book.

There was laughter. They greeted me kindly.

"If folks would only get to know us," said the Quakers.

As we sat and talked Miss Edgerton suddenly said:

"Hast thee been fed?"

And so while some argued and others listened, she built a brisk little fire in the range and piled me with hot chocolate and soup left from supper, and fresh brown bread.

These persons who had figured so in the news are just like other persons. It seems, only, perhaps, a little kinder.

Over on the couch Doris Benson continued her contemplative stare.

"She's thinking about gas engines," explained Miss Edgerton. "Barley" (the family name for Garland) was explaining the car to her all afternoon but she can't get it thru her head." Doris was contrite.

Garland smiled at her indulgently. Every few minutes he would reach over to light a fresh cigarette from above the lamp. Behind the lamp were two rows of books, all the discourses of Plato, all the works of Tolstoy, Walt's "Outline of History," "The Outline of Science," a volume of Ibsen's plays, a work of Edward Carpenter, other books combining poetry, history and science.

Between cigarettes Garland leaned back in his chair offering occasional observations.

"Jung and Freud and the rest were given to interpreting everything thru the medium of sex," he said. He didn't know but what some other medium would do as well.

He hadn't read "Tertium Organum" but meant to. Understood it was a meaty book. He wished more people would read Edward Carpenter.

Once he jumped up to get Webster's definition of pathological. Then he led an animated discussion as to the exact relation between pathos and disease.

Afterward he took a volume of poems by Edna St. Vincent Millay under his arms and went to his bed in the barn.

The two women told me they are seeking happiness thru this venture of shaking off the trappings of city life and living simply and plainly and close to the soil.

The shy and witful, Doris Benson vigorously denied that she agreed wholly with all of Garland's theories.

"Anyway," she said, "each person has to work out those things alone. What I want to learn just now, tho, is to be a good farmer."

Alice Edgerton was likewise anxious to learn to be a good farmer as part of the pursuit of happiness.

Almost as picturesque as Garland's has been the career of this friendly eyed young woman who for two years has lived without money.

believe he may agree to support the government of Bonar Law until the Irish constitution is ratified and the crisis passed. He may be led to pursue this course, it was stated, because it was due to his efforts that comparative peace was brought to Ireland and the free state government established.

However many expect him to openly declare war on the proposed Tory government of Bonar Law and to offer the most stubborn resistance and opposition that any British government has ever put up in a century, amounting to a general upheaval.

FRENCH VICTORY, NEWSPAPERS SAY

PARIS — (Associated Press) — The dominating note in the French press comment on the fall of the Lloyd George cabinet in England is that the change cannot fail to be a victory for the French.

Andre Tardieu, writing in the Echo de Paris, says: "The French are in a position of triumph. It is the victory of the French people, the victory of the French Republic, the victory of the French Empire." He says that the fall of Lloyd George is a success for France, and that the French people will take time to ponder the significance of the event.

The Journal writes: "The French people against counting upon a complete change in the British policy. The French people are not ready to believe that the British will remain as they are." It says that the fall of Lloyd George is a victory for France, and that the French people will take time to ponder the significance of the event.

The Times believes the effect will everywhere be beneficial. It declares the country wants to "return to the normal ways of life and to feel that the welfare is in the hands of men of sound sense, less anxious to shine as individuals than to merit confidence as faithful wardens of the public good."

"The coalition is dead and gone, unwept and unregretted," says the Daily News. The Westminster Gazette comments: "The coalition has been a failure. We look to the country to carry us back to cleaner, simpler politics."

The Daily Mail says Great Britain has had no more unpopular administration than the coalition since the days of the Stuarts. The Daily Herald calls upon labor to prepare itself for the election, it repudiates the charge that labor is associated with the extreme type of revolutionary socialism, and says it is merely revolutionary in the sense of desiring to tackle the causes of social evil and build society on a sounder foundation.

The Daily Chronicle, warm supporter of Lloyd George, thinks that notwithstanding yesterday's happenings a coalition government of one type or another is likely to be the country's lot for much of its foreseeable future.

NATIVE AMERICAN IN LEADING ROLE
With the passing of Viscount Northcliffe, who in the heydays of Lloyd George's reign, was one of his principal backers, a new journal, the power is rising. Edward is Ralph D. Blumentfeld, editor of the Daily Express.

Mr. Blumentfeld is American born, a graduate of West Point and saw service in the American army on what was then the "Western" frontier. As a British newspaper publisher, Mr. Blumentfeld has long been aligned with the conservative party, now called leadership through the king's invitation to Andrew Bonar Law to form a government succeeding the coalition. Mr. Blumentfeld has been closely associated with Bonar Law over an extended period. In the following articles, written exclusively for the United Press, he tells of the changes in policy to be expected as a result of the overthrow of Lloyd George.

(BY RALPH BLUMENTFELD)
LONDON — (United Press) — The succession of Andrew Bonar Law to the premiership means that the British empire will be led back firmly by a master hand to a course of traditional conservatism in international affairs, which means abstention from adventures abroad, determination not to mingle in the affairs of other nations and a fixed policy of maintaining the historic traditions of the British empire.

It is an old truth that wars and international complications have been studiously avoided by the conservatives. Whenever they have been out of power, the nation has come out of the wars and in the end, it has been the conservative element on whom has fallen the task of extrication.

The adventures of the Lloyd George government brought things to a climax and forced the conservative majority in the coalition to assert its principles.

The crash was inevitable.

CAN "MISSING MEN" ROAM AT WILL IN LIMA WITHOUT DETECTION?

ARE there any "Missing Husbands" in Lima? Police say there are many here, and while their families search in vain, they go from place to place in the city with an apparent attempt to conceal their identity.

Do you think you could find one of them? Well, here's your chance to try.

Two married men have been chosen for an experiment in Lima next week. They will roam about the city at all hours. Those who detect them will be paid $25 for each. It will be an interesting experiment in which the entire city may engage. Full details will be given in the Sunday edition of The Lima News.

Bonar Law represents in the fullness of the time the policy of the British empire. He is a man of great energy and initiative, and he is a man who is not afraid to take risks. He is a man who is not afraid to take risks.

So far as his attitude toward the United States is concerned, I can only say that he is a man who is not afraid to take risks. He is a man who is not afraid to take risks.

BRIBERY CHARGED
Result of Liquor Case Probe in Chicago

of flowers were depicted as growing together. She detested it.

STORY CHANGED TO LOVE
"Everything must be true," she would say to Charlotte. The rector and she found an affinity in books.

One day he brought her "Simon Called Peter," by Robert Keable, the dramatic story of a clergyman's illicit love.

From that day, apparently their story changed to one of love.

The affair apparently ripened rapidly. Gossip started in church circles.

Mrs. Hall apparently was above having suspicion. She and Mrs. Mills were friendly. She accompanied her husband and the choir singer on little excursions into the country that grew more frequent with the past year.

Finally Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall started writing love letters. These they exchanged through the medium of a secret niche, known only to the two in the little church on George-st.

They began to take long walks alone, Tuesdays, Fridays and Sunday evenings. They once were seen in New York together. Near Philadelphia farm they had a rendezvous, the one that proved a rendezvous with death on the fatal night.

Mrs. Mills drifted more and more away from her family, altho on one occasion perhaps remorseful, she said to Charlotte, clutching the child to her:

"I'll never leave you and Don until you're old enough to care for yourself."

The rest is known, how they were apparently lured from their home and slain by whom? What is the clue I have gleaned from this brief study of their lives?

Two groups are under suspicion

One of course, that was urged on by the jealous woman. The other group, which might, perhaps unwittingly have been responsible for the double killing, would be a group of "vigilantes" outraged by discovery of the rector's affair with Mrs. Mills. This group might conceivably have attempted to confront the pair with evidence of their guilt. They might have intended nothing more than this with a view to a ducking for the woman who had sinned. They were probably armed, if they attempted a kidnapping.

TO GO ON TRIAL
Homer Gratz, Rockport teamster, will go on trial in Justice E. M. Rottin's court Friday afternoon on charges preferred by Frank Killian, agent of the Allen-Co. Humane society.

Gratz is accused of working one horse and two mules with raw collar sores. He was arrested at a stone quarry in Rockport on September 27, and pleaded not guilty when arraigned on October 5.

Oil Light Beats Electric or Gas
BURNS 94% AIR

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, G. M. Johnson, 600 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' F.P.E.E. trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it.

Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

LIQUOR DECISION DUE TODAY

Court Expected to Pass Shipping Injunction

WASHINGTON.—(United Press).—Enforcement regulations giving effect to the Daugherty ruling prohibiting liquor on all American vessels and on foreign vessels within the American three-mile limit, were in final form here today, lacking only formal approval of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Their issuance, however, is contingent on the outcome of permanent injunction in proceedings brought before Federal Judge Learned Hand of New York of the White Star Line the French Line and the International Mercantile Marine. Judge Hand, it is understood, is expected to rule on the application today or tomorrow.

If Judge Hand denies the applications for permanent injunctions and sets aside an injunction now in force, the regulations will be proclaimed instantly into effect.

However, he makes the temporary injunctions permanent, the regulations will go into a pigeon hole pending the outcome of the expected legal battle which will take the whole question of the validity of the Daugherty ruling to the supreme court.

THOUSANDS HAVE HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Symptoms are Dizzy Spells, Shortness of Breath and Sleeplessness

A very successful remedy for high blood pressure is known to pharmacists as NORMA, and during the past year the demand for it has increased tremendously.

A Buffalo physician devoted his talents to a close study of this altogether common condition and the result is a prescription now sold under the name of NORMA that is for high blood pressure only.

When a high blood pressure is lowered, it is generally conceded by competent authorities that ailments caused by it, such as nervousness, pains in the head, restlessness, hot flashes and dizzy spells will cease to occur.

NORMA reduces high blood pressure and when that abnormal condition is overcome, freedom from the ailments mentioned above quickly follows.

Green's Public Drug Store dispenses NORMA—so do reliable pharmacists everywhere.—Adv.

Fall Election to be Significant Politicians Say

By EDWARD M. JEFFREY

NEW YORK — (Special) — Advice from political circles is to watch New York's election day. They have figured out that the 1922 campaign will make a landmark in the political calendar.

The main reason for this is that the political scene will be a subject of national interest.

It is believed that the election will be the biggest in the history of the state, and that it will be a real test of the political system. The main reason for this is that the political scene will be a subject of national interest.

Miller, however, is being talked about more and more who may be the Republican presidential nomination if it goes to that state and more important, it is believed that it will be a real test of the political system.

NO NATIONAL ISSUE
There is no national issue in the New York campaign for the election of governor and United States senator, and no other kind of issue, other than the local one.

Miller and his Democratic opponent, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, are engaged in a dry, statistical debate over which of them conducted the state government most economically.

The senatorial contenders are William M. Calder, Republican senator since 1917, and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democratic health commissioner of New York City.

The two tickets are a queer mixture in personality and political complexion. Smith, Tammany high priest known to everybody as "Al," is a professional politician. So is Senator Calder, Brooklyn Republican leader. Miller is the judge type, a poet, an orator, a non-political campaigner. Copeland, tho a physician and a former professor in the local college, is a champion publicist who has a politician by training as much as he is by instinct and has spent the latter in the rough and ready life in school.

Miller is the kind type, with a permanent smile that is infectious and which he wears as readily as his suit. He was born on New York street and is all the more a New Yorker for it. He has been assemblyman, and president of the board of education and governor from 1919 to 1921. He is now head of a truck line company.

Miller who beat Smith for reelection in 1917 and lives in various

He has been school teacher, lawyer, corporation counsel of Cortland county, state comptroller, justice of the Supreme Court, and associate judge of the Court of Appeals. He resigned the highest judicial office in the state to resume practice of the law. In 1920 he hit the national spot light by becoming Herbert Hoover for president, nominating him at the Chicago convention. He went back into politics the same year and was elected governor.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY EXPECTED

Calder, 52, contractor and real estate man, was a congressman from 1906 to 1915 and was elected senator in 1917.

Copeland is a Michigan man, 51, one-time practicing physician in Bay City mayor of Ann Arbor from 1901 to 1905, professor of ophthalmology at the University of Michigan, dean of the New York Homeopathic Medical College, and New York City health commissioner since 1918.

New York state normally is Republican and New York City Democratic. Since 1924 there have been only three Democrats out of 13 governors, elected in 1919, 1922 and 1925.

Smith's strength is indicated by his victory in 1915 by 1,900 votes (tho two years earlier the state went Republican by 2,100 for senator, 150,000 for governor and 110-

000 for president; and in 1920 Smith led Cox by nearly two to one, losing to Miller by only 74,000 while Cox lost the state to Harding by 1,020,000.

BRYAN DECLARES BEER FIGHT CAMOUFLAGE

PEORIA, Ill. — William Jennings Bryan in a speech here last night said the liquor interests are not fighting to repeal the eighteenth amendment and that the campaign for the sale of beer and light wines was a camouflage.

"The real intent of the liquor interests," he said, "is to turn the nation over to lawlessness."

H. S. CAPPELL CHOSEN COLUMBUS — H. S. Cappell, Dayton, was elected president of the Ohio State Retail Furniture Dealers' Association by directors of the organization.

KEROSENE ADVANCED

NEW YORK — The price of kerosene was advanced one cent to 15 cents a gallon by the Standard Oil Company of New York.

MRS. WILLIAM C. FRIEDLEY DIES OF COMPLICATIONS

Mrs. William C. Friedley, 38, 713 E. High-st., died Thursday evening at 9 p. m. from complications following an operation for appendicitis.

She was born in Lima, daughter of Peter and Katherine who survive here, and was a member of the Women's Mooseheart Legion.

She is also survived by her husband, William C. Friedley, foreman, and by six sisters, Mrs. E. W. Johnson, Lima, Mrs. L. C. Gerdeman, N. Baltimore, Mrs. Lloyd Packard, Toledo, Mrs. Elizabeth Slusser, Lima, Mrs. Lawrence Clark, Lima; and four brothers, John Slusser, Toledo, Fred, George and Mark Slusser, all residing in Lima.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the First Reformed church. Rev. T. W. Hoerneman will officiate. Burial will be at Woodlawn cemetery.

REGISTRATION TO BE BAROMETER

Officials Watch New Voters for Election Indications

MAY FORECAST BALLOT

Effort Made to Bring All to City Polls

Registration figures Friday and Saturday are expected to act as a barometer on the possible size of the vote which will be cast November 7, according to Joseph M. Madison, chairman of the board of elections for Allegheny.

If registration is heavy, it will be taken as an indication that the voters of the city are going to flock to the polls in large numbers to express their will.

On the contrary, if but few voters place their names on the poll books of the 70 precincts inside the city of Lima it may be taken as an indication that a light vote will be cast.

Two years ago a general registration was held. Approximately 17,600 voters were registered inside the city.

This year only the new voters and those who have moved in since the last election are required to register. Voters who are residents of the city but never have registered are indifferent or any other cause, will have to go to the precinct polling place and have their name entered in the books if they wish to vote on November 7. Otherwise they will be out of luck.

The vote this year, it is believed, will not reach the total cast in 1920, when a national contest was on. Political leaders are however hoping to come close to the record.

Many voters, however, cannot be induced to go to the polls save in a presidential year. All arguments that the local and state offices are more important to them than the national office, fall on deaf ears.

It is this class of voters that both parties direct their messages in an effort to drag them out on the crucial day.

Many of these voters will not register, save when almost forced to do so. If they aren't registered, their votes cannot be counted.

Hence precinct workers for both the Republican and Democratic parties will comb over their ballistics on Friday and Saturday to rout out the hesitant voter and get them recorded in the right book.

RAPS TARIFF BILL

Special Concern of Women, Mrs. Johnson Tells Meeting

CINCINNATI — From the alarm clock by which she arises, to the wool blanket she pulls over her when she retires, all the articles handled by the housewife during the day bear the burden of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act, an audience composed mainly of women, was told here by Mrs. Eleanor Bailey Johnson, Zanesville, Democratic congressional committeewoman for Ohio.

Mrs. Johnson stressed the point that politics was the concern of women, that such questions as the tariff had a very real interest for them, and that they were false to their duty to themselves, to their home and to their country if they failed to inform themselves and then exercise the privilege of an elector.

CITY INITIATED

Twenty new members were initiated into the City Lodge No. 139, Order of Moose, at Moose Temple, North and West-sts., Thursday night, at one of the largest meetings held locally in the past year. The class initiated was the first to go in on the 60 days drive to obtain 1,000 new members. A second large class are scheduled to enter the lodge on November 3.

Joe C. Hartline, and Ira E. Wagner, two of the class initiated Thursday night made short talks to the lodge following the ceremonies.

CHIEF EXCITED

"If he doesn't be more careful next time I'll leave him at home," said Chief of Police Lankier, highly prizes the pond food, declaring that when the ponds dry there are about a dozen seeds in them that are rare, indeed. He has a pond on display in his office.

ON TO OHIO!

Twenty pilgrims from the University of Michigan rested their cars in Lima, Thursday evening enroute for the Mecca of all wearers of the Maize and Blue. Columbus, O. where their Arabs engage the Sheiks of Coach Wilco in the most important football game of the Middle West. All were optimistic. They predicted victory for the Maize over Ohio State.

OFF FOR GAME

Austin O'Connor and Charles Kutz will attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game in Columbus, Saturday.

DRUNKS SHOW INCREASE

An increase of 33 per cent in the number of drunks who paid fines assessed them in criminal court was seen Thursday by Miss Esther Heffner, court clerk, when she compiled figures for the first nine months of the year.

GODD WEATHER IS PREDICTION

A glorious week-end bathed in a shower of warm sunbeams will greet those anxious about the weather, the prophet declares.

Cool air will be penetrated by warming rays that will leave just the proper tang in the atmosphere to make one realize that it is fall, Friday will be cool all day, but Saturday will be marked by rising temperature, the prediction declares.

Frost scheduled for Thursday night was very light. It was hardly noticeable Friday morning.

Lima has settled down to definite autumn weather with spells of real cold and frost now a regular thing.

Razing Program Follows Fire
Prevention Week

Value of more than 200 old shacks and similar decrepit structures ordered torn down by Fire Chief John Mack after he had completed 2,500 inspection during Fire Prevention Week recently is no more than $4,000, yet, their sacrifice will greatly decrease the fire hazard and may be the means of saving $500,000 worth of property.

The chief says orders are being promptly obeyed and in the majority of cases the old structures will be replaced by buildings that will be a credit to the city.

Many of the dilapidated buildings were veritable firetraps which hindered the progress of the city because builders were afraid to do any constructing near them.

Protection a high fire will be improved more by razing the eyesores than by adding thousands of dollars worth of new equipment to the fire department, the chief declared.

MANY DOWN TOWN

In the present era of local expansion the program required a substantial center from which to launch out. If the heart of the city is forested with structures likely to be the ruin of a big fire, building will be spread, but if the core is sound the building will attain full growth without hindrance, Mack points out.

A considerable number of the old buildings were located practically in the center of the city. Recently the chief and his men razed one near the public square.

In discussing building codes, Mack declared the one and only feature which he advocated most is in regard to roofs. Anything but material that catches fire from sparks, he says, is a congested portion of the city this hazard is more pronounced than in the outlying districts.

Work of this kind during Fire Prevention Week set the pace for a program that will be carried out 365 days per day says the chief. Nothing will be left returned to hold down Lima's insurance rates and put the clamps on her fire hazard.

HAS NEVER FELT BETTER IN ALL HIS LIFE

Thousands of frail, nervous people and convalescents everywhere have testified to the remarkable power of Tanlac in bringing back their health, strength, and working efficiency. It seems to quickly invigorate the constitution and is a powerful foe of weakness. Harry W. Miller, 328 S. Main St., Akron, Ohio, says:

"My whole system was out of order. My appetite failed me, I was so nervous I couldn't sleep, I lost weight, and felt worn out all the time. Tanlac certainly made quick work of my troubles. I gained nearly ten pounds in weight, and was soon feeling like in every way. There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac. It enabled the stomach to turn the food into healthy blood, bone and muscle, purifies the system and builds you back to normal weight. Get a bottle today at any good drugstore."

SIX THOUSAND ASKED IN AUTO ACCIDENT CASE

Victor and Edward Cardoul, fruit merchants, 124 S. Central-av., have been made defendants in a $6,307, damage action in common pleas court. Harry Bernstein, merchant, 1014 Brice-av., is plaintiff.

The action is result of an automobile accident on W. North-st., on June 1, in which Bernstein was injured and his motor car wrecked. It is set out in the petition that Frank Stone, driver of Cardoul's truck, was driving west at a 40 mile per hour, he ran into the plaintiff's car at the intersection of N. Charles-st.

Stone, has defective sight, it is alleged in the petition, and was driving at a reckless and illegal rate.

DEWEESE AT MEET

Lima Legion Delegate to Replace
Dr. Sinks

Peter DeWeese, 55 W. Wayne-st., who is attending the American Legion, national convention at New Orleans, La., as a representative of William Paul Gallagher Post No. 96, has sat on the convention floor as a delegate from Ohio.

Dr. E. D. Sinks, regular delegate from the Lima district, was unable to attend the convention, and DeWeese who was named as alternate replaced him.

DeWeese is also delegate from Allen-co to the national convention of the society of "40 Hommes of 3 Chevaux," which is holding its sessions in conjunction with the larger convention.

COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE ARMISTICE CELEBRATION

Details of the Armistice Day celebration is to be held in Lima November 11 will be worked out by the chamber of commerce committee at a meeting in the commerce auditorium Friday at 7:30 p. m.

A heavy program such as was seen last year may not be attempted this year as the day falls on Saturday when business houses will find it impossible to close.

Under the leadership of J. W. Beall, chairman, a parade, observance of the three minute quiet at noon and an evening meeting and entertainment will probably be arranged for.

It is understood the American Legion is in favor of a simple but impressive celebration this year and any plans devised will bear this in mind.

'TOO MANY LOVES' IS BLAMED

Slayer of Southern Beau Brummel Hidden by Amours

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (Special). — Who killed Guy N. Bernier, clubman and bon vivant, may never be known.

His extraordinary fascination for women, which officials declare caused his murder here is the means now of protecting his slayer or slayers from the vengeance of the law.

Bernier has been accused of breaking up numerous homes. His diary, recently found, is said to contain the names of many women so closely prominent in the southwest.

Fearful lest the finger of scorn be directed toward their feminine relatives, powerful men are said to be subtly but effectively blocking the police in their efforts to unravel the mystery.

The acknowledged Beau Brummel of Arizona's capital was strangled to death and his body thrown into an irrigation ditch near here. His clothes were left neatly piled in his automobile which was left near the ditch, apparently to give the impression that Bernier took his own life.

LEGION TO PLAN FOR ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM

Armistice Day plans and the manner in which the American Legion will participate, will be discussed at a meeting of William Paul Gallagher Post No. 96, Friday night.

The post will hold poppies in conjunction with the Women's Auxiliary, and the proceeds will be divided equally between the two organizations.

The latest reports from the New Orleans convention will also be read before the post, and a report from a committee on entertainment made.

ELKS AID Y. M. C. A. Organize Team for Association's Membership Drive

A new division has entered the lists for the Enrollment Week of the Y. M. C. A., October 23 to 26.

J. T. Kaufman, of the Ohio Steel Company, has been instrumental in organizing the Elks division which will compete with the other five divisions in enrolling new members.

Two teams are entered in the Elks Division, Team No. 1, J. T. Kaufman, Captain, George Ba, George Eckert, Ernest Baird, Glen W. Webb and Harry Goldsberry.

Team No. 2, Elmer Roberts, Captain, Harry Graham, H. T. Simonton, Mark Ketter, George McDonald, and Earl Rehn.

A prize will be awarded the division leader, whose division enrolls the most new members. The individual securing the most new members will also receive a substantial prize donated by Robert J. Plate, campaign leader, and president of the association.

FIRE RAZES BARN

Two Automobiles Consumed by
$2,500 Blaze

Fifteen minutes after he had left the building for his home nearby to shave, a barn belonging to F. E. Ferguson, Cole-st road and Robb-av., was enveloped in flames Thursday night. Before the fire could be checked the barn was completely destroyed and two autos damaged beyond repair, a total loss of $2,500.

Fire Chief Mack held an investigation Friday on the theory that the fire was of incendiary origin, but the supposition was not substantiated.

Partial insurance was carried on the barn, but the autos, Overland and Ford sedans, were not covered.

HAVE TO GET UP NIGHTS FOR BLADDER RELIEF?

Try Simple Method This Dayton
Man Reports Relieved Him
Quickly

Mr. Wm. D. Ostermeier, 326 E. Second-st., says in his own home paper, the Dayton Daily News: "My bladder caused me to get up many times at night and also inconvenienced me as often as every 20 minutes on the day after taking a few Liblated Buchu-Keller formula tablets my bladder is perfectly normal. They also relieved a very lame back for me. It gives me much pleasure to tell my friends about these little tablets."

Liblated Buchu-Keller formula acts on the kidneys and bladder like Epsom salts, do on the bowels. It cleans them out. It is not a patent medicine, as the formula is on the package. The tablets cost 25 each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several high-priced drugs, which are useful for relief. Very likely you have never taken anything like this remedy. Try a few doses for backache, rheumatic, scanty or high-colored urine, and frequent desire at night.

You can get Liblated Buchu-Keller formula at Hunter's 5 Stores and drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, O., Adv.

COAL PRICES SHOW NO CHANGE

State Ruling in Force Today; Ineffective in Lima

Domestic consumers who attempted to purchase coal Friday, the day when the prices set by the Ohio Fuel administration went into effect, soon discovered that something was wrong.

The prices were not lower. Not only were the prices at the same levels as earlier in the week but the supply of Ohio coal available was very small and chances of obtaining more were very slight.

Better grades of West Virginia coal were being quoted to consumers around $10 a ton with the mine run coal fractionally lower. The fair price on this coal, as set by the state, is slightly above $10 a ton.

Supplies of anthracite coal and the Pocahontas grades are now being received. One dealer reported that orders for hard coal placed last May are now being filled.

Ohio coal will not be available on the local market until the demand from other states where consumers are willing to pay high prices for fuel has been satisfied, Lima dealers fear.

German Leaving Fatherland in Increasing Numbers

PER CENT JUMP SHOWN

Hamburg is Most Favored Point of Exit

HAMBURG — (Associated Press) "Wanderlust" is again stirring noticeably in the German breast.

During the first half of 1922 there was an increase of 48 per cent over the same period last year in the number of nationals setting out for new residences in foreign lands.

Where they have gone the records disclose in part only.

From the number of 11,000 Germans during this period on bookings during the first or second class.

More than first or second class. The outward trek in the first semester of 1921 totaled 7,592. During the second half of last year there was an excess of 15,662. Of this year's emigrants nearly 5,000 were women.

Hamburg continues the most favored point of exit, with Bremen second. Of 140 who sailed from Amsterdam up to July, 93 were bound for South America and 47 for New Orleans, Mexico, and Cuba.

Last year the first six months saw 2,355 bid the continent goodbye from this port, the unusual decrease being regarded as indicative of the depression used for using Dutch harbors following the growing revival of German shipping. Most of the emigrants chose April, May, and June to start on their travels.

Pressia led the individual contributing sources with a total of 5,666, of whom 566 were from Hannover, 913 from Berlin, 832 from the Rhine and, and 132 from Upper Silesia. The next heaviest loss among the states and provinces was Bavaria, whence 1,626 went abroad.

BLACKMAIL CHARGED CLEVELAND — On charges of blackmail and assault and battery preferred by Louis Chaliff and Louis Cudkin, contractors, John E. McGee, business agent of the Painters' Union local district council, was arrested.

Resolution No. 583
A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE SUBMISSION TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF LIMA, OHIO, OF AN ADDITIONAL TAX LEVY OF TWO (2) MILLS FOR EACH OF THE TAX YEARS 1922 AND 1923 AGAINST ALL OF THE TAXABLE PROPERTY IN THE SAID CITY OF LIMA, OHIO, IRRESPECTIVE OF ALL TAX LIMITATION IMPOSED BY SECTION 5649-5B, AND ALL OTHER LIMITATION IMPOSED BY LAW ON TAX RATES.

WHEREAS, the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, on the 29th day of April, 1921, duly enacted House Bill Number 34, to provide temporary financial relief for local taxing districts in the State of Ohio, and

WHEREAS, under the terms of said Bill the City Commission of the City of Lima is authorized to submit to the Electors of the City of Lima an additional tax levy.

WHEREAS, in order that the question of said additional levy may be submitted to the Electors at the November Election of 1922, it is necessary that this Resolution be an emergency measure, and

WHEREAS, the subject matter hereinafter provided constitutes an emergency measure by providing for the immediate preservation of the public property, health and safety, now therefore

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LIMA STATE OF OHIO Two-thirds of the whole number elected thereunto concurring:

Section 1. That the amount of taxes that may be raised by the levy of taxes on the 1922 and 1923 duplicate against all taxable property in the City of Lima at the combined maximum rate authorized by Section 5649-5B of the General Code of Ohio and within all other limitation imposed by law on tax rates in said City will be insufficient to meet the demands of said City of Lima, and it is hereby declared that it is expedient to levy taxes in excess of such limitation for the tax years 1922 and 1923; that it is necessary to levy said taxes for the tax years 1922 and 1923 at the rate for each year of two (2) mills on each dollar of the taxable valuation of the taxable property within the City of Lima in excess of the rate authorized by Section 5649-5B of the General Code of Ohio, and in excess of all other limitations imposed by law.

Section 2. That the question of a tax levy as aforesaid of two (2) mills per year upon all the taxable property within the City of Lima for the tax years 1922 and 1923 in excess of the limitations provided by Section 5649-5B of the General Code, and all other limitations imposed by law be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of said City of Lima at the General Election to be held in said City on the 7th day of November, 1922, at the regular place of places of voting in said City, and said election shall be conducted, canvassed, and certified in the same manner as other general elections.

Section 3. That the Mayor of this City be, and he is hereby directed to give public notice of the time and place of holding said election, in the manner provided by law.

Section 4. That the Clerk of this Commission do, and he is hereby directed to CERTIFY A COPY OF THIS Resolution to the Deputy State Supervisor of Elections of Allen County, Ohio.

Section 5. That this Resolution be an emergency measure for the reasons set forth in the Preamble hereto shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Passed October 4th, 1922.

DEATH DEFIED BY GIRL AT SEA

English Young Woman Becomes
Most Daring Diver

HUNTS SUNKEN TREASURES

Narrow Escape Made by This Wearer of Helmet

LONDON (Associated Press).—The profession of deep sea diving, which anyone would classify as a calling particularly fitted for men, has been successfully invaded by a woman, Margaret Taylor, an English girl, is acclaimed as one of the most efficient and daring divers of the helmet in British waters. She has gained a wide reputation during the last two years, and more recently for her efforts in the recovery of treasure from the sunken Spanish galleon lying in ten fathoms of water near the shore of Mull, an island off Scotland. There in the early part of the year, 1919, she and her husband, a diver, recovered from the wreck of the Spanish galleon, the treasure of the Spanish Armada. The boat was one of the many vessels that had been sent to the Spanish coast to fight the ambitious Philip, in 1588, for he attempted conquest of England.

JEWELLED CROWN SAVED
So certain was the research that he would add the British Isles to his already large dominions, that he actually sent on his jewelled crown in advance. It is believed today that the richly jewelled crown is lying somewhere in the sixty feet of water among the wreckage of the Armada. The crown, which Miss Taylor has succeeded in recovering, is a masterpiece of jewel work. Altho the task presents many problems which would cause anxiety to divers of the stronger sex, Miss Taylor shows no fear. She has had one or two narrow escapes from death in the course of her experience, without being in any way deterred from tackling the risky business again.

Miss Taylor recently made a trip to the southern coast of England and obtained some excellent specimens of undersea plant life. She nearly lost her life when her feet became entangled in a ladder which she was using, and only her presence of mind enabled her to free herself and be hoisted safely to the top.

Get more eggs than you ever got before

There's no great secret or mystery about getting eggs. It is almost entirely a matter of feeding. Thousands of poultrymen have found that by feeding

Blatchford's EGG MASH

they made their hens lay more eggs than they had ever laid before. If you want to increase your egg production, here's the sure way to do it—feed Blatchford's. Try it on our recommendation. It's a quality feed through and through and makes good every time.

OPEN LETTERS

To Voters

MY FRIENDS: Tonight and tomorrow will be your last opportunity to register for the coming election if you are among those who must attend to this duty to be qualified to exercise your franchise in November.

Only those who have moved and those who have become of age since the last registration are affected. Don't lose your vote by carelessness. This is a year when you should be particularly anxious to help decide who shall handle our affairs for the next two or more years.

To Householders

FIREBILLS: How about the furnaces and stoves? Have you had them carefully inspected to guard against fires? My good fire chief, John N. Mott, has given you ample advice on the matter. Please heed it.

LIMA BEANE

To Johnny Creps

To Jimmie Weadock

MY BOYS: You as cheer leaders for your respective schools will play a big part in the O-S-U-Michigan football game at Columbus tomorrow. I am proud of you. One of you will be disappointed, probably, but I know both of you will be on the job to the last ditch.

LIMA BEANE

To President Harding

DEAR WARREN: After you had decided to send your cabinet into Ohio to make it safe for a continuation of the same policies we have had for the last two years, I had hoped to hear some real interesting dope. But so far I have not run across any. One thing is certain, tho, Warren. They're good, obedient boys and never overlook an opportunity to give their Chief a boost.

There are so many things they might explain if they would. But I guess there's no use to ask them. I have been wondering since they started spouting if it doesn't sort of go against their grain to harp on some of the things they must carry out orders. Harry Davis' regime for instance.

LIMA BEANE

To My Workers

FRIENDS: Workers includes all my people. I'm not affected by an over-abundance of loafers. It's good to be able to tell you that any and all of you may have jobs now. Looks like real old times, doesn't it?

YOU PAY THE BILL -- COAL PRICE FACTS

IT appears to be a matter of history that in cases of price fixing by government authority, the consumer usually pays the bill.

Those who fondly believed that they were to escape high cost of coal this winter are disappointed. It was believed that when the Legislature was called into special session by the Governor that the state law making body would be able to give aid to the consumer rather than to the producer.

Despite the fact that an expensive assembly was held and there were flamboyant statements released that implied cheaper fuel it still is a fact that Hoeking coal is costing Ohio people 50 per cent more right now than during war time. The country is at peace there is no acute demand for fuel for war purposes, there is little or no trouble about transportation and there is no excuse for higher priced coal now than in war time.

'ROUND LIMA HOUR BY HOUR

WITH APOLOGIES

BY OH. CH. JACKENRIM
A Page from the Diary of an Anti-Quoted Reporter: Up this day, all

ABE MARTIN

The Democrats are so shiftless. They didn't even get one good, full campaign out of the late war, while the Republicans have been capitalizing the rebellion for fifty years. Henry Ford hasn't only made millions, but think of the great fortunes that have been piled up by the makers of Ford automobiles such as shock absorbers, steering knuckle, door hinges, etc.

At the time of the coal strike, fuel was being loaded ready for shipment at $1.97 per ton. A "fair price" was fixed at $3.30 per ton and coal went up to that price. Later the Legislature was convened in special session to enact laws that would enable the state to fix a "fair price" for coal and save the people from robbery thru exorbitant prices. Much hot air was tossed and the tom-toms were vigorously beaten over the beneficent act of Governor Harry I. Davis. Amid a blare of trumpets and flourish of flags the enabling legislation was passed and a price fixing commission resulted.

That commission has "labored" and has brought forth a boomerang for the people of Ohio. They are paying the bill. Perhaps Governor Davis felt inclined to reimburse the coal barons who contributed to his campaign fund two years ago and to that of C. A. Thompson, Republican candidate for Governor this year.

Strolled westward with Nels Nelson, the other half of the tailleur firm with whom I was making up the day before. Looked like a brave eagle suit, on long time payment. Lunch at Jack & Yeh's Mikado, the cash register ringing like a fire alarm. Ben Mottet the banker and barrister, and Ralph Austin, the engineer. Discussed with Dr. Roman the original stadium fan. Leaving for Boston. With Dr. Tommie Thomas, Dr. Filletan, Dr. Oliver Steiner and Dr. Baxter, a noble aggregation of medical stellar lights.

In the afternoon, to the train shed against a fry-out for Chicago. Saw there Billy Crooks, the manager of the company working like a freight jugger. Saying nothing about the coming of the elevated tracks and a new station. Took a fiver on Ohio Out against the purchase of a new pair of shoes. There's Dan Kivan afoot, and Ed Hiner in a taxi.

Dined well on a thin soup, macaroni and cheese, with ham baked in onions, very sweet. Thence came a plumber to mend a belt and the bill will be longer than the belt. Mended the furnace last week, and left more material than he used. For which I must pay, methinks, but not without protest.

In the evening, went over the kitchen accounts with my wife, poor wretch, who is three shilling ahead of her allowance. And no record of the poor boob whom he accidentally shot, changed. Lunched late on jelly sandwiches, very thin, with a beaker of milk. And so, to bed.

DAUGHERTY BREW

To Governor Davis

DEAR HARRY: I had hopes, when I heard about your intentions concerning coal, that you would top off the last few months of your expensive two years--expensive to the public--in a blaze of glory. But alas! It is the same old story. We've been ripped again. Too bad, Harry, you didn't get across one really good thing for the people.

LIMA BEANE

To My Children

BOY: GIRLS: Halloween is drawing near. You know how I feel about serious jokes and destruction of property. Don't disappoint me for I'm counting on you conducting yourselves in an approved manner this year. Remember no bon on the fun but no rough stuff.

LIMA BEANE

To General Byng

DEAR CLARENCE: It's really remarkable, the system of regulation we're getting worked out for us. I haven't had time to call at City Hall to find out, but must, for I don't know what hours have been set aside for feeding of canary birds.

LIMA BEANE

To Hunters

BOYS: The squirrel season is over. Next comes the open period on rabbits. Just a little advance advice. Don't mistake your buddy or some farmer's cow for a cottontail.

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

TREAT THE HIDE KINDLY

Letter from a misapprehensive lady:
"My dear Doctor Brady:
"After bathing, with even the best soap, soft or hard water, warm or cool, tepid or hot, I suffer an intense burning itch that nearly drives me frantic. It lasts about 30 minutes and leaves me weak and sick. Please tell me what to do. I am afraid I shall have to go bathless. I have suffered in this way for years, although I bathe not more than twice weekly, as a rule, sometimes only once a week."

"Sincerely yours,
"MRS. C. P. E."
Here is a harbinger of the long, hard winter approaching. Hide away all the calendars and still I can tell the season unerringly by the questions readers ask. And I need not depend on hay fever or chills. A slight rise in the incidence of itch among our best families or at any rate the most washed families tells me as plainly as the falling leaves that the melancholy days have come. The driest of the year so far as the pool of hide of our cultured classes is concerned.

Happy is he who fairly itches to bathe, but these melancholy days are indeed hard on misguided folk who bathe only to itch. I mean this quite seriously. The happiest persons I have known, the envied, the most delightfully grimy and the most miserable gloomy and despondent creatures it has ever been my misfortune to deal with were distressingly and ever obsessively clean in a purely artificial way—that is, clean so far as frequent body washing goes.

I, in natural factors keep the human skin smooth, soft, clean and free from blemishes. These factors are the sweat, the sebum or oil excreted by the skin, sunlight and the oxygen of the air, which is a natural disinfectant and deodorizer. But, alas the more civilized and cultured we are the more chance have these natural factors. Indeed, it is unrefined, indecent, unfashionable or improper to give any of these natural factors a fair show. And the poor old hide suffers, of course.

Then we add insult to injury by applying an irritant detergent, a rather powerful chemical substance called soap, more or less frequently, to aid in removing the grime which the natural factors do not fail to remove for creatures living natural lives. This irritant detergent does remove grime, all right, but along with the grime it removes also something essential to the well being of the skin, the natural skin oil or sebum which preserves the softness

By BERTON BRADLEY

THE INDOOR SPORT
My golf is a joke and my tennis is worse.
And, really, people swim quite as badly as I.
But though to such sports I am far from adverse,
I don't really shine until summer's gone by.
Then me for the place where the ivories click,
And also where tempers excitingly fall;
At sports such as these I'm decided,
I swing a mean cue and I roll a mean ball!

I'm versatile, too, in the sports that I know,
My pinocchio game is ex-celled by few.
At checkers I'm not at all stupid or slow,
I'll say that I check a good dombo too;
I like to get busy at jack-pot or stud,
With hard-boiled old stagers, se-vi-saged and gruff,
Who hold the cards close and who go out for blood,
Who boost a steep raise and who throw a smooth bluff.

The summer's all right, and I fall for its charm,
But autumn and winter are more to my taste,
When one can loaf 'round in a room that is warm,
And play at a game without sweating or heat;
I like the blue smoke that is thick as a cloud,
I like the male laughter that booms through the air,
My record outdoors doesn't do me proud,
But indoors—oh boy, I'm a wi and a bear!

MOTOR LESSENS MILK COST

Large Sums Saved Thru Delivery by Trucks

FIVE CENTS A CAN CHEAPER

Horse-Drawn Vehicles Are Rapidly Discarded

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Milk distribution by auto truck is becoming more general and a nation wide movement in favor of such transportation is now in progress, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Reports reaching that body show that Cincinnati receives 97 per cent of its daily milk supply on trucks; Atlantic, 90; Kansas City, 40; Los Angeles, 90; and Milwaukee, 63. At one of the principal creameries in Detroit more than 9,000,000 gallons of milk were received by truck last year.

MORE SATISFACTORY
The report shows that truck distribution thru suburban areas within a radius of from 30 to 50 miles is more satisfactory and economical than any other means of transportation. With the possible exception of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, it was said, the opinion was expressed that producing areas are not located so distant from distributing points that trucks cannot be used.

In Milwaukee, the report said, it was shown that fifty five per cent of the 30,000 gallons shipped into the city daily arrives in trucks, at an annual saving of $17,512. In addition to this, milk dealers were quoted as saying they could handle milk five cents a can cheaper when the milk is brought to them by truck from the farms, than by any other method.

In the retail delivery phase, it was added, the case was cited of a large milk company that motorized its delivery service replacing 54 horse-drawn vehicles with 44 motor trucks and effected a saving of $24,000.

FACES LIFE SENTENCE ON KIDNAPING CHARGE

OMAHA, Neb. — Fred Brown, Omaha, "Chainman," today faced a sentence of life imprisonment for kidnaping with intent to assault Mrs. Jean Jenkins, 21 years old.

In returning a verdict of "guilty as charged," after 44 hours deliberation and recommending life imprisonment, the jury ended one of Nebraska's most spectacular criminal cases.

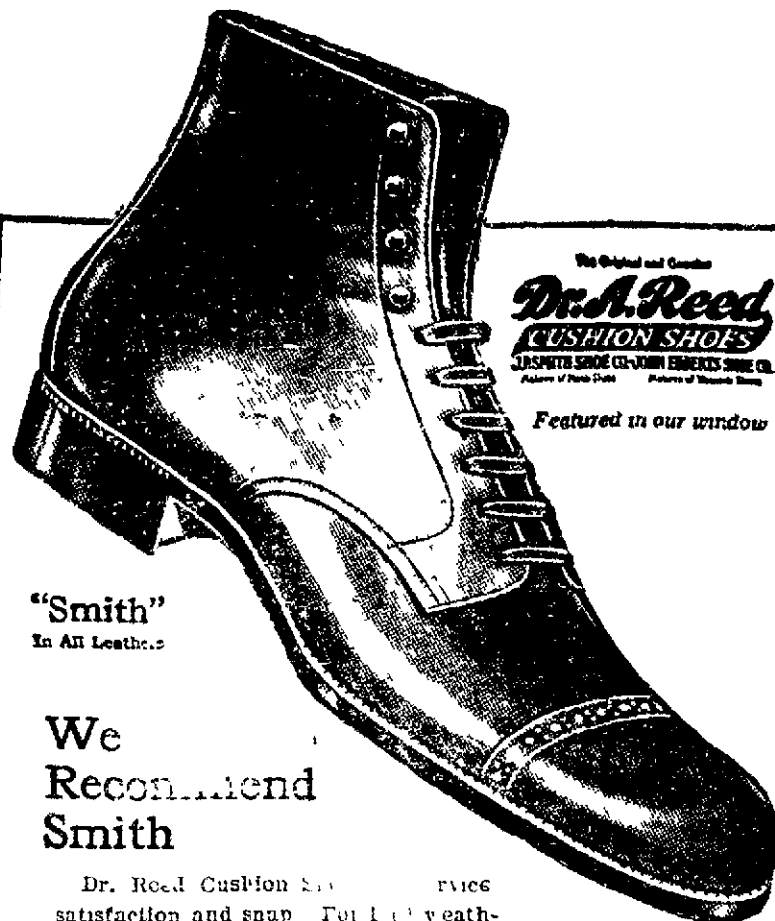

Brown's ability to elude apprehension when apparently inescapably cornered attracted wide attention. In his pursuit, Nebraska officers employed every available method of travel and his capture was effected only after he had been dangerously wounded.

In striking contrast to the terror caused Nebraska citizens by the varying reports of Brown's success in his efforts to get away from the state, stood the almost dwarfed stature of the man and his mild demeanor throughout the trial.

INDEPENDENCE IS SEEN FOR IRISH

De Valera Still Leads Republicans, Woman Says

HAS FAITH IN FUTURE

Destiny Bigger Than That of Colony, She Says

MONTREAL — (Special) — "De Valera is still the leader of the Irish Republicans and is expected to help Ireland work out its destiny as an independent nation."

"The present Irish Free State government will not last."

"Ireland will ultimately become a free and independent nation."

Thus did Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington, widow of the Irish nationalist leader who was shot during the 1916 rebellion in 1916, and who is herself an ardent Republican advocate and worker, epitomize the present Irish situation in an interview. Mrs. Skeffington arrived here a few days ago to spend a few weeks with her sister.

"De Valera is by no means thru," Mrs. Skeffington stated emphatically.

LOOKED ON AS LEADER

"He will continue to maintain the stand he has taken for a free Ireland. He is looked up to as the leader of the Irish Republican party. While at present he is an active service and is not much heard of over here, he is still the recognized leader and there will be no let up in the campaign for complete independence."

Asked if Conroy and Mulcahy, the present leaders in the Irish Free State government, are able to carry on in place of Griffith and Collins, she replied:

"They have not the capabilities nor the mentality of the late leaders. Conroy, who takes the place of Griffith, is a much older man. He is a city alderman in the Dublin council, of which I am also a member. He is like the average alderman and certainly has none of the ability of the late Arthur Griffith."

"Mulcahy, who takes Collins' place as military leader, is far below Collins in the qualities that make for successful leadership. He has not the same personal sway over his followers that Collins had."

"With regard to Ireland's future, I am absolutely convinced that we will yet have an independent Irish republic. We have a good many differences now, but they will gradually be straightened out."

"Ireland has a bigger destiny than to be just a colony of Great Britain."

$13,000 IN BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED FRIDAY

Home building took a new lease on Friday when permits for the erection of three new homes, to cost a total of $13,000 were taken out at the city hall.

Two houses costing $4,000 each will be erected by F. H. Benz. One will be located on N. Cole and one on N. Jameson-ave. A $6,000 double house will be erected on W. Kirby-st by Mrs. M. E. Riley, 516 S. Pine-st.

A permit for remodeling to cost $135 was also issued to Hattie Harris, 132 S. Park-ave. This makes a total of 11 home remodelings, nine garages and five homes started this month.

U. S. SUES OHIO CONCERN

WASHINGTON — Return to the government of $454,188 in connection with war contracts was asked in a suit filed at the direction of Attorney General Daugherty in the federal courts at Cleveland, Ohio, today against the Cleveland Brass and Copper Mills Inc., and their sureties, the Fidelity and Deposit Company

MONTRE

Profit Realized By Ohio Electric On City Deposit

A number of years ago, city officials do not know how many, the Ohio Electric Railway Co., deposited $200 with the city treasurer to guarantee the repair of streets which the company might fail to take care of. As the years rolled by it was not necessary for the city to use any of the money and the interest accumulated until Friday it amounted to $54.91, making a total of $254.91 to the fund.

Recently repairs to the streets were made by the city after the company had been duly notified. These repairs cost $26.92 and the money necessary was taken from the fund. As the Lima City Street Railway Co., successor to the Ohio Electric Co., has deposited $200 with the city treasurer under the terms of the new franchise the money in the original fund is being returned to the latter company.

C. A. Bingham, city manager, Friday ordered the city treasurer to send a check to the Ohio Electric Co., for the balance in the fund. The street railway company will receive $254.91 for the $200 which was deposited many years ago. The street repairs will thus cost them nothing.

MRS. J. J. Wyre, of W. Market-st., extended the hospitality of her home to the members of the Altruistic club for a most interesting meeting, Friday afternoon. The responses of roll call were in the form of current events. Mrs. E. K. Warden presented the paper for the afternoon having as her subject "Broad Casting." The paper was very well prepared and favorably received.

At the close of the program an informal social hour was enjoyed and a hearty repast was served by the hostess.

H. M. Dille, of W. Spring-st., spent her home to the members of the club for a most interesting meeting, Friday afternoon.

Sunshine prevailed again for the Women's Music club matinee recital Thursday and a splendid audience enjoyed a unique program of music inspired by famous authors and poets. The recital was given at Memorial Hall.

Mrs. W. Campbell, one of the prominent charter members, gave interpretations of the program by reading a poem or telling something of the writer that was enlightening to the hearers.

A trio composed of Miss Gwendolyn Lowry, violinist; Mrs. Andrew Diamond, cellist; and Miss Louisa Polz, pianist, gave three beautiful old dances from Shakespeare's "Henry the VIII." The music was composed by Edward German.

James Allen Grubb gave a most interesting group of songs including "I Arise from Dreams of Thee," inspired by the poem of Shelley with music by Thomas Hahn. The "Daisy Song" was the second number, using lyrics by the poetess, and was skillfully with a most melodious musical setting by Paul Bliss. "The Cave" was a descriptive poem by Elizabeth Reynolds with music by Edwin Schneider. The song "Bird of the Wilderness" with music created by Horman, completed the delightful group. As an encore Mr. Grubb sang Richard Hageman's "Song of Happiness." Mrs. Grubb accompanied her husband at the piano in her own intuitive manner.

The only piano solos were played by Mrs. E. A. Siferd, who is one of the studios members. She is a talented pianist and her playing was much enjoyed. She chose MacDowell as the composer and first played "A Scotch Tune" (words by Homer) followed by "The Eagle" from Tennyson's poem. The last number was one following the flight of the great bird.

Mrs. Clarence Klinger sang three interesting songs in excellent voice and with pleasing manner. Her first was Schubert's poem, "Joy." The music was written by Francis Moore, who appeared with the Artone quartet recently in this city. "Bonnie Doone" by the beloved Scotch poet, Robert Burns sang its way to all hearts. "Ah, Love, But a Day" from Browning was as usual most pleasing to all, who are fond of the music of Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, one of America's finest woman composers. Miss Mary K. Roly played the piano accompaniment.

Ballet and wedding music from "Peramorz," an opera founded on Thomas Moore's "Lalla Rookh" including "The Dance of the Fairies" and "The Candle Dance of the Bride of Castlereagh" were splendidly played by Mrs. Harry Macdonald and Mrs. J. E. Dexter. The music was by Rubenstein.

Next came a group of contralto numbers all by American composers and sung by Mrs. R. O. Woods. The group included "Alibi" (Longfellow) with music by Chadwick, "Wind Song" (Fisher) with music by Rogers, ending with a poem by Miss Barker, "I Know" with music by Sprouss, bringing rounds of applause. Miss Leona Polz played the piano accompaniment.

The recital closed with old favorites, "Antiras Dance" and "The Ball of the Mountain King" from Ibsen's "Peer Gynt." These were skillfully played on two pianos by Mrs. Paul Timmerman, Mrs. E. A. Siferd, Mrs. J. E. Dexter and Mrs. T. J. Hobart.

The Cleveland Symphony orchestra will appear at Memorial Hall at the second of the splendid evening attractions for this season, Wednesday, November 8th. Nikolai Sokoloff is the conductor and Beryl Rubenstein the piano soloist.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Engler, of W. Eureka-st., are the week-end guests of friends in Columbus. They will attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game in that city, Saturday.

Mrs. Clord L. Fritz will return to her home in San Francisco Saturday after an extended visit with Lima relatives.

Miss Mildred Catt, of W. Myrtle-st., will return Sunday after a week's stay in Ft. Wayne and Chicago. Miss Catt will attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game in Columbus Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Broese, Mrs. Charles Haines, Miss Ruth Haines and Rodney Haines will motor to Columbus Saturday to attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game. While in Columbus they will be guests of Raymond Haines, a student at Ohio State University.

Home Guards of Trinity M. E. church will hold the first meeting of the year in the junior department of the church Saturday at 8 p. m. The program will be in charge of Mrs. R. C. Eastman. Hallowe'en games and refreshments will follow the program. All members of the junior department are invited to attend.

No holiday in the year is so informal as eve of All Saints' Day. All Hallowe'en, Hallowe'en or Hallow-even as it is designated in various lands. This is a night when fun, laughter and mystery prevail. Fairies, goblins and ghosts and witches go hand in hand.

One affair Friday evening is heralded by the following invitation on a candle lighted card: Please come to our Hallowe'en Party, October 20th, 1922 at 8 p. m. at 912 E. Elizabeth-st., hostess, Marjorie Castle.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods and Mr. Woods' mother, Mr. James Woods, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. MacKeagie, of W. Market-st., for a week leave Monday for their home in Los Angeles.

HONEYMOONERS ABROAD—
THRILLS!

John and Edna Get Their First Glimpse of Europe

By ZOE BECKLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Were business accounts going to wreck the perfect conditions on which JOHN DURYEA and his bride, EDNA, had built their happiness? Edna knew this when she learned her husband had been entrusted with a "delicate and confidential" mission by his employers. Edna's husband, John, tells her the secret. He has been ordered to investigate the suspicious acting of the firm's European manager.

COUSINS, Edna plans to assist her husband in the discovery of business intrigue.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
There was no more sleep that night for the Duryeas. They dressed in their landing clothes and went on deck to see the dawn break upon their first sight of Europe.

The velvet Italian night, its glitter softened to a delicate blue, took on the pastel colors of a lovely dawn. There against the skyline ahead was a graceful tapering peak, a cloudy plume at its crest.

"Why—'tis Mount Vesuvius!" cried Edna. "Think of recognizing the old dear from his picture! Naughty old creature that destroyed Pompeii and Herculaneum."

"And look—the city—the Bay of Naples—and way out there, that shadowy thing, what is it? Capri? Oh, Jack, how lovely—how marvelous for us to be seeing it all—together like this!"

Jack caught some of her excitement.

"Hope we don't die of it. Eds. There's a saying, you know: 'See Naples and die.' Some slogan for a town to adopt!"

Edna felt a little pang of displeasure.

"Oh, Jack, that's what a poet said of Naples—so beautiful that after seeing it there seemed nothing left to live for. Just a bit of beautiful exaggeration. Can't you feel a little of it with him?"

"Divine a bit!" laughed Jack cheerfully. "Haven't got a nickel's worth of poet in me. You'll have to put up with a plain, though handsome, business man."

"No such a thing, Jack Duryea. You wrote the class song at college. You can be a poet if you want to."

RUN UNDER CUT
HE RAISED HIS GLASSES
I've got letters from you that are—well, literature! You only choose to put on this hardware-salesman air."

"More money it is."

"There'll have to be both money and poetry in this family, Jack."

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Williams, of W. North-st., and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stuart, of S. Cole-st., are home from Columbus, where they attended the state convention of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, F. and A. M.

Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Wagner, of S. Charles-st., have returned from Sidney where they attended the wedding of Miss Mary Louise Gerlach. Harlan Paul O'Connor, which was celebrated in Sidney.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Kelsky, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Workman, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Solomon, Mr. and Mrs. Warren McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Kelsky, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Williams, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Harley, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Butcher and daughter Jean, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Barnhart, Miss Florence Price and Miss Margaret and Katherine McGraw are among the large number of Lima residents who will attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game in Columbus, Saturday.

Miss Edna Humes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Humes, of Spencerville and Glen Grossnickel, son of H. Grossnickel, of Marietta, Mich., were quietly united in marriage at the parsonage of the United Brethren church, Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of the church officiated and the attendants were Miss Bertha Ward and John Humes, brother of the bride.

Mr. Grossnickel and his bride will be at home to their friends at 325 E. Lincoln Way, South Bend, Ind., after November 1st.

Mrs. L. H. Earl, of 1578 W. High-st., will welcome the members of the Needlework club at her home, Saturday afternoon.

Susie Smart's Advice

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl 17 years of age and am coming to you for some advice. I have been very much interested in a boy one year senior for some time. However I am never able to be with him alone. He is always with a crowd of boys and when ever they see me and this boy asks me for an engagement he asks me to get some one for his friend. There is no other girl I care to ask. I would much rather go out with this boy alone. How can I make him understand that I don't want some one tagging along all the time.

SUE: Two is a couple—any additional number only proves a nuisance. Shame on you Sue! That is not a very courteous and friendly attitude for you to assume. You understand that it is not always possible for one to change an invitation to satisfy his or her own personal likes.

Your letter suggests that you have neglected your girl friends. That is a mistake and you will soon realize that you will miss many good times if you do not enjoy friendships among the girls. It would be in very bad form for you to insinuate in any way to this boy that you would rather be with him alone. You are young and it is far better for four of you to enjoy your good times together.

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl 16 years old. Recently I learned that the young man I love is coming to a girl in another city. Now I think that I shall take up all of my time work that I can get over my disappointment. Do you think this would be a wise plan? I have firmly resolved never to go with another young man.

A READER: A very poor resolution that the for it is generally conceded that the surest way to overcome a disappointment in love is to fall in love again. The fact that one man deceived you is no reason why every other man should prove unfaithful to you.

Your plan for becoming engaged in some new work is very wise. That will undoubtedly prove very satisfactory in helping you to overcome your grief.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) Will you please tell me where I can reach a mind reader by mail? Do you believe in them? (2) How is my writing?

MISS WANT TO KNOW: I am sorry, "Miss Want to Know," but I am unable to satisfy your request. You might start concentrating and perhaps one of these magic persons might respond in answer to your call. Frankly I have little or no faith in the so-called wizards or mind readers of today. They serve very well as entertainers but that is all. (2) Your writing is possible.

Fog Delays Twins' Race Back to Fairyland

By Olive Roberts Barton

He handed the Green Wizard the ashes and the soot. The Green Wizard knocked three times on the big chimney where the Sweep lived, and the Sweep stuck out his head at once. "How, now?" he cried. "What can I do for you, good sir?" "I'll have a bucket of ashes and a can of soot. If you please," said the Green Wizard. "Nancy and Nick are stuck in a ditch beside the road and can't get out." "Av, you shall have it, and soon," said the Sweep, and disappeared instantly. He returned in no time at all and handed the Green Wizard the ashes and the soot. Back went the Wizard over the tree-tops to the place where the doubt, they would have arrived at the Fairy Queen's Palace and all would have been well but something happened. A dense fog began to settle over everything. It was so thick and smoky that the Twins couldn't see thru the windshield. Nick turned the knob on the whirling again and the magic automobile stopped. "We might take the wrong road," he said, "so we'd better stay here." (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1923.)

THE FLAMING JEWEL

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In his bustling camp in the Adirondacks, MIKE CLINCH, rum-runner and law-breaker in general, is heading his flaming jewel, that priceless gem first stolen from the COUNTESS OF ESTHONIA by the international thief, QUINTANA, and stolen from Quintana by Clinch.

Quintana has returned to gain possession of the jewel which Clinch possesses. He holds it as the means of "making a lady" of his beautiful step-daughter, EVE STRAYER.

JAMES PARTRIDGE, under the name of HAI SMITH, is at Clinch's camp seeking to gain possession of the gem and restore it to the beggared countess.

Eve is captured by Quintana, savagely treated but escapes to the hunting camp at Star Pond. Here, with STATE TROOPER STORMONT, she awaits the return for Clinch and his men who have gone out to clean up Quintana's camp.

Clinch discovers that one of his men, EARL LEVERETT, has gone over to Quintana. Leverett escapes in a hull of bullets from Clinch's rifle.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

For its size there is no fiercer animal than a rat.

Radlike rage possessed Leverett. In his headlong flight through the dusk, fear, instead of quenching, added to his rage; and he ran on and on, crashing through the undergrowth, made wilder by the pain of vicious blows from branches which flew back and struck him in the dark.

Thorns lacerated him; unseen logs tripped him; he heard Clinch's bullets whining around him; and he ran on, beginning to sob and curse in a frenzy of fury, fear, and shame.

Shots from Clinch's rifle ceased; the fugitive dropped into a heavy, shuffling walk, jawless, ragged, gasping, with his weaponless fists in the darkness.

"Get run ya, I'll fix ya," he kept stammering in his snarling, gasping voice, broken by sobs. "I'll learn ya, yeh poor damned thing, get run ya."

To his own shock on Stinking Lake he dared not go. He tried to believe that it was fear of Clinch that made him shy of the home shanty; but, in his cowardly soul, he knew it was fear of another kind—the deep, superstitious horror of Jake Kloom's empty bunk and the repugnant sight of Kloom's spurs, clothing hanging from its peg—the dead man's shoes.

All at once he thought of Clinch's step-daughter. The thought instantly scared him. Yet—what a revenge!—to strike Clinch through the only creature he cared for in all the world! What a revenge!

Eve sat on her bed's edge, swathed in a lilac kimono—delicately of school days. Her bandaged feet, crossed, dangled above the rag on the floor; her slim, tanned fingers were interlaced over the book on her lap.

Near the door stood State Trooper Stormont, spurred, booted and armed, an undecided and flustered young man, fumbling irresolutely with the purple cord on his campaign-bag.

She looked up at him again, wistfully. Perhaps he was restless, bored, sitting there beside her all the day, and, already, half the night. Men of that kind—active, nervous young men accustomed to the open—can't stand caging.

"I want you to go out and get some fresh air," she said. "It's a wonderful night. Go and walk a while. And—if you feel like—coming back to me."

"Will you sleep?" "No, I'll wait for you."

Her words were natural and direct, but in their simplicity there seemed a delicate sweetness that stirred him.

"I'll come back to you," he said. Then, in his response, the girl in her turn became aware of something beside the simple words—a vague charm about them that faintly haunted her after he had gone away down the stairs.

That was the man she had once tried to kill! At the sudden and terrible recollection she shivered from curly head to bandaged feet. "Then she trembled a little with the memory of his lips against her bruised hands—bruised by bandages which he had fastened upon her."

She sat very, very still now, huddled on the bed's edge, scarcely breathing.

For the girl was beginning to dare formulate the deepest of any thoughts that ever had stirred her virgin mind and body.

If it was love, then it had come suddenly, and strangely. It had come on that day—at the very moment when he hung her against the tree and handcuffed her—that terrible instant—if it were love.

Listening there where she sat, clasping the book, she heard his steady tread patrolling the veranda, caught the faint fragrance of his bristly pipe in the still night air.

"I think—I think it's love," she said under her breath. "But he couldn't ever think of me"—always listening to his spurred tread below.

After a while she placed both bandaged feet on the rug. It hurt her, but she stood up, walked to the open window, she wanted to look at him—just a moment.

By chance he looked up at that instant, and saw her pale face, like a flower in the starlight.

"Why, Eve?" he said, "you ought not to be on your feet."

"Once," she said, "you weren't so particular about my bruise."

Her breathless little voice coming down through the starlight thrilled him.

"Do you remember what I did?" he asked.

"Yes. You bruised my hands and made my mouth bleed."

"I did penance—for your hands."

"Yes, you kissed them!"

What possessed her—what irresponsible exhilaration was inciting her to a daring utterly foreign to her nature? She heard herself laugh, knew that she was young, pretty, capable of provocation. And in a sudden, breathless sort of way an overwhelming desire seized her to please, to charm, to be noticed by such a man—whatever, on after thought, he might think of the step-child of Mike Clinch.

Stormont had come directly under her window and stood looking up.

"I dared not offer further penance," he said.

The emotion in his voice stirred her—but he was still laughing down at him.

She said: "You did offer further penance—you offered your handkerchief. So—as that was all you offered as reparation for—my lips—"

"Then I'm coming up to complete my penance."

"I'll kiss my door!"

"Would you?"

"I ought to. . . But if you are in great spiritual distress, as if you really and truly repent, and if you humbly desire to expiate your sin by doing—penance—" And he lifted: "Do you so desire?"

"Yes, I do."

"Humbly? Confidently?"

"Yes."

She strove to laugh, gazing down into his shadowy face—but suddenly the desire had left her—and all her safety left her, too, suddenly leaving only a still excitement in her breast.

"You—you knew I was just laughing," she said unsteadily. "You understood, didn't you?"

"I don't know."

After a silence: "I didn't mean you to take me seriously," she said. She tried to laugh. "I was no use. And, as she leaned there on the sill, her heart frightened her with its loud beating.

"Will you let me come up, Eve?"

No answer.

"Would you lock your door?"

"What do you think I'd do?" she asked tremulously.

"You know; I don't."

"Are you so sure I know what I'd do? I don't think either of us know our own minds. . . I seem to have lost some of my wits. . . Somehow. . ."

"If you are not going to sleep, let me come up."

"I want you to take a walk down by the pond. And while you're walking there all by yourself, I want you to think very clearly, very calmly, and make up your mind

"I'LL LEARN YE, YEH POOR DAMNED THING!"

Valley. Eve Strayer was alone at the "Dumpp." . . . Another thought flashed like lightning across his mind—the packet!

Brushed by Quintana, Jake Kloom, lurking at Clinch's door, had heard him direct Eve to take a packet to Earl Marsh, and had notified Quintana.

Wittingly or unwittingly, the girl had taken a packet of sugar-milk chocolate instead of the priceless parcel expected.

Again, carried in, exhausted, by a state trooper, Jake Kloom had been fooled; and it was the packet of sugar-milk chocolate that Jake had perched from the veranda where Clinch kicked it.

For two cakes of chocolate Kloom had died. For two cakes of chocolate he, Earl Leverett, had become a non-slaver, a honest fugitive in peril of his life.

Somewhere in Clinch's Dumpp was the packet that would make him rich. . . Here was his opportunity. He had only to dare; and pain and poverty—and tears—at all else bear would end forever.

When, at last, he came out of the edge of Clinch's clearing, the dark, gleaming leaves were but a vast wilderness of stars.

The lights burned steadily from back windows.

CHAPTER IV

From his hiding place among frost blackened rag-weeds, the trespasser could see only the plastered ceiling of the bed chamber.

But the kerosene lamp cast two shadows on that—tall shadows of human shapes that stirred, . . . times—to strike Clinch through the only creature he cared for in all the world! What a revenge!

Eve sat on her bed's edge, swathed in a lilac kimono—delicately of school days. Her bandaged feet, crossed, dangled above the rag on the floor; her slim, tanned fingers were interlaced over the book on her lap.

Near the door stood State Trooper Stormont, spurred, booted and armed, an undecided and flustered young man, fumbling irresolutely with the purple cord on his campaign-bag.

She looked up at him again, wistfully. Perhaps he was restless, bored, sitting there beside her all the day, and, already, half the night. Men of that kind—active, nervous young men accustomed to the open—can't stand caging.

"I want you to go out and get some fresh air," she said. "It's a wonderful night. Go and walk a while. And—if you feel like—coming back to me."

"Will you sleep?" "No, I'll wait for you."

Her words were natural and direct, but in their simplicity there seemed a delicate sweetness that stirred him.

"I'll come back to you," he said. Then, in his response, the girl in her turn became aware of something beside the simple words—a vague charm about them that faintly haunted her after he had gone away down the stairs.

That was the man she had once tried to kill! At the sudden and terrible recollection she shivered from curly head to bandaged feet. "Then she trembled a little with the memory of his lips against her bruised hands—bruised by bandages which he had fastened upon her."

She sat very, very still now, huddled on the bed's edge, scarcely breathing.

For the girl was beginning to dare formulate the deepest of any thoughts that ever had stirred her virgin mind and body.

If it was love, then it had come suddenly, and strangely. It had come on that day—at the very moment when he hung her against the tree and handcuffed her—that terrible instant—if it were love.

Listening there where she sat, clasping the book, she heard his steady tread patrolling the veranda, caught the faint fragrance of his bristly pipe in the still night air.

"I think—I think it's love," she said under her breath. "But he couldn't ever think of me"—always listening to his spurred tread below.

After a while she placed both bandaged feet on the rug. It hurt her, but she stood up, walked to the open window, she wanted to look at him—just a moment.

By chance he looked up at that instant, and saw her pale face, like a flower in the starlight.

"Why, Eve?" he said, "you ought not to be on your feet."

"Once," she said, "you weren't so particular about my bruise."

Her breathless little voice coming down through the starlight thrilled him.

"Do you remember what I did?" he asked.

"Yes. You bruised my hands and made my mouth bleed."

"I did penance—for your hands."

"Yes, you kissed them!"

What possessed her—what irresponsible exhilaration was inciting her to a daring utterly foreign to her nature? She heard herself laugh, knew that she was young, pretty, capable of provocation. And in a sudden, breathless sort of way an overwhelming desire seized her to please, to charm, to be noticed by such a man—whatever, on after thought, he might think of the step-child of Mike Clinch.

Stormont had come directly under her window and stood looking up.

"I dared not offer further penance," he said.

The emotion in his voice stirred her—but he was still laughing down at him.

She said: "You did offer further penance—you offered your handkerchief. So—as that was all you offered as reparation for—my lips—"

"Then I'm coming up to complete my penance."

"I'll kiss my door!"

"Would you?"

"I ought to. . . But if you are in great spiritual distress, as if you really and truly repent, and if you humbly desire to expiate your sin by doing—penance—" And he lifted: "Do you so desire?"

"Yes, I do."

"Humbly? Confidently?"

"Yes."

She strove to laugh, gazing down into his shadowy face—but suddenly the desire had left her—and all her safety left her, too, suddenly leaving only a still excitement in her breast.

"You—you knew I was just laughing," she said unsteadily. "You understood, didn't you?"

"I don't know."

After a silence: "I didn't mean you to take me seriously," she said. She tried to laugh. "I was no use. And, as she leaned there on the sill, her heart frightened her with its loud beating.

"Will you let me come up, Eve?"

No answer.

"Would you lock your door?"

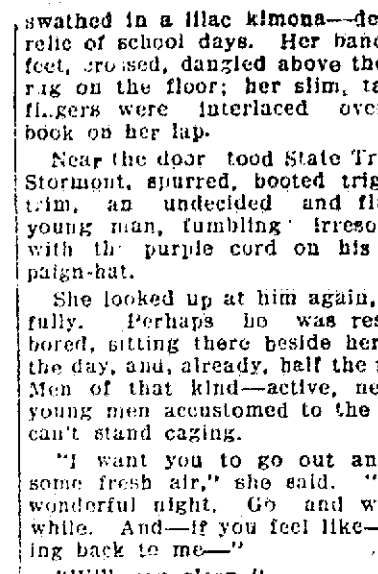

"What do you think I'd do?" she asked tremulously.

"You know; I don't."

"Are you so sure I know what I'd do? I don't think either of us know our own minds. . . I seem to have lost some of my wits. . . Somehow. . ."

"If you are not going to sleep, let me come up."

"I want you to take a walk down by the pond. And while you're walking there all by yourself, I want you to think very clearly, very calmly, and make up your mind

TOURNEUR MAKES "LORNA DOONE" SYMPHONY

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
"LORNA DOONE" is the screen's master of pictorial composition. Few pictures have been as beautiful as his "The Last of the Mohicans." He has expended his fine work in that in his latest version of "Lorna Doone."
Shoop, dressed in a gate, others strapping on a hill in the background and a dog—these details grouped in twilight and you have the picture of Lorna's pastoral symphony interpreted by the camera.
Tourneur does not introduce a character directly on the set. First he has some sort of frame, an arched doorway or the mouth of a cave. Then he has the character move into the frame and become an animated picture. Tourneur arranged the background for the action, then set his characters in motion and left the camera to tell the story.
Madge Bellamy is Lorna and John Bowers is John Ridd. Hereafter we have thought that Bowers was cast in heroic parts in the films because of his build and his curly hair. There seemed to be little perspective in his assumption of a character. But he does the character of John Ridd with fine intelligence and feeling.
Miss Bellamy has an air of innocent sweetness that makes her attractive.

Vaudeville Bill at the Faurot a Winner
T patrons of the Faurot Opera House and theatre-goers who enjoy the best in vaudeville, will find the bill of the new week's offering at the new playhouse will prove a well-balanced program as you will find anywhere, and each and every act has been selected for perfect entertainment qualities.
Following the film showing, consisting of a Mutt and Jeff cartoon, a musical act and a clever two-reel comedy, a decidedly clever comedy-juggling act opens the bill. The acts of Rialto and Lamont, the principals, combine startling acrobatics with fun and melody, and check up one hundred per cent.
Two charming young people, Babe and Tommy Payne, have a beautifully staged act that proves one of the hits of the program. Piano, violin and terpsichorean demonstrations form the major portion of their act, which features a clever impersonation of Eva Tanguay singing "Don't," by Miss Payne.
Rawls and Kaufman present a lively skit that fairly coaxes with wit and laughs, followed by Gardiner and Revere in an amusing, nonsensical divertissement which included a lot of original matter and satirical mimicry on the preceding offering.
The program's headlines, a charmingly staged affair presenting a company of five, proved the most popular number. Well-trained vocalists impersonating Galli-Curci, Al Holson and other well-known stars is bound to please the most exacting.
Just a splendid, well arranged Keith program, and we hope you will like it.

"Island Wives" Has a Tropical Flavor
H ere we have the exotically beautiful Corinne Griffiths in a South Sea setting, most of the action taking place at Tahiti, I believe, or some other such place.
"Island Wives" of which we wrote, is a two-reel comedy, despite the two-reel length of the story. The two reasons are the amazingly beautiful lighting effects and the equally amazing beauty of the star, Corinne Griffith. Sweet and without a trace of the haughtiness one usually associates with beauty, she is charming as the island inhabitant, and as a society leader in New York.
Tahiti is a return, allowing a wide range of costumes, and above all emotions. The main plot, as mentioned above, works well on the imagination, and for that reason, its why and wherefore is kept from your anxious(?) ears.
Rockliffe Fellows, as the villain-husband, makes a suitable vis-à-vis while other roles are well taken. Thus a tropical typhoon that is really terrifying; photography that is of the best Vitaphone has ever achieved, and a picture that is a real jointed style, that somehow do not fit in with the other good points of the picture.
Action? Plenty. And Corinne will so in tune with her beauty that the film will please the majority.
At the Lyric again today.

"A Question of Honor" With Anita Stewart
P ersonality, plus good looks, plus a goodly amount of histrionic ability is Miss Anita Stewart's chief asset, and no matter what kind of a film story the producers give her, she can be counted on to make the film release of popular appeal.
In "A Question of Honor," displays Miss Stewart in a pair of engineer who goes west to build a dam, as all engineers in the movie eventually do. And with that kind of a start, you know there will be much dynamiting, etc., etc. There is.

Walter Whitman as the grizzled old woman-hater is particularly good in his part, while Edward Hearn, the builder of dams, is my idea of a regular hero. Miss Stewart, of course, dominates every scene which no one minds in the least. And so on indefinitely. "A Question of Honor," while not exactly new as a plot, will furnish a most pleasant evening's entertainment. At the Sigma again today and Saturday.

New Orpheum Comes Forward With Something New
S INCE yesterday was Thursday, and since the programs being presented at the New Orpheum change on that day, the Billy Allen Co. came forward on Thursday afternoon with a sparkling, merry little musical offering, "Live, Love and Laugh," featuring Hal Kiter, Phil and Peggy Hart in dancing novelties; The Macks, whose songs are so well liked among vaudeville goers and the irresistible youngsters, Baby Dolly, Baby Ruth and Baby Betty Jean.
New costumes and sets are evident in each and every number, and merit is dispensed with lavish hand during the entire performance.
Starting on Sunday, an electric runway will be a feature of the Billy Allen programs, all of which will help along the fun and provide an innovation new to Orpheum followers.
THEATRE DIRECTORY
At the performance on Thursday evening, one of the features was a Poultry scene, at which Hal Kiter, assisted by members of the company, distributed live chickens to members of the audience.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—FRECKLES TAKES NO CHANCES

The Duffs are on a vacation. While Walter R. Allman, boss of the Duff ranch, is spending a few days getting new ideas for a new and greater Duff cartoon, "Freckles and His Friends" will entertain you each evening. Allman will be back about October 27 with a Duff cartoon that will be more interesting than it has been in the past.

MUTT AND JEFF—MUTT NEVER LIES TO HIS WIFE—

By BUD FISHER

BRINGING UP FATHER—

By McMANUS

SHORT SHAVINGS

Thurston Shreve, bank employee, tells of a fellow in a downtown bank who gave the vault custodian the signal to release the heavy barred door to the security vault. Then he pushed to open the door. No action. He repeated the signal, and pushed harder. Then he gave the signal, and pushed once more and shoved with all his might. 'There's the door, beside you,' said the custodian. 'That isn't the door you're pushing. That's the wall.'

E. Dale Crumman had spent a busy afternoon around his home. After his work inside, he decided to fill the radiator of his automobile. He got out the funnel which has a long extension in the end, and he thrust it into his trousers pocket with the funnel end out. While he was drawing a bucket of water at the hydrant.

Clarence Braufelter, the popular humorist, was seized with such an inspiration as comes only once or twice in a lifetime. He picked up a quart measure and filled it with water as if to take a drink. But instead he poured the entire quart into the open mouth of the funnel.

Dr. J. J. Sutter, district health physician, was gathering quinces from a plum tree which also bears figs.

Nothing could be nicer, he says except possibly a quince bush which also bears alligator pears at three for $1.
